MEMORANDUM

TO: Mayor & Council
FROM: City Manager
DATE: Wednesday, August 14, 2019
RE: Proposed Ordinance – Building Permits Fees

Staff previously presented the Council with a proposed ordinance change that would allow building permit valuations to be calculated based on data published by the International Code Council. As the City Attorney indicated during the discussion portion of the ordinance, this is becoming the norm throughout the state. I am asking the Council to reconsider the ordinance for several reasons:

- Upon being hired as City Manager, one of my mandates was to review all fees and look at loss-leaders that could be corrected. This proposed ordinance meets that mandate.
- The City expects to have approximately 500 residences built over the next 5 years and the purpose of the Building Permit Fees is designed to cover the administrative costs of permitting, building inspections, soil and erosion plan review, construction plan review, etc.
- Below is a chart based on the proposed 182 single-family homes to be constructed as part of the Jones Crossing development along East Main Street/State Highway 54. The City stands to lose at least $70,616 in new revenue to cover the cost associated with new construction in Hogansville on just the Jones Crossing subdivision. When extrapolated to the proposed new 500 homes, that number escalates to approximately $194,000.

Fiscal Year	Home Permits	Current Ordinance	Proposed Ordinance	Difference	Percent Change
FY19	50	$60,250	$79,650	$19,400	32.2%
FY20	50	$60,250	$79,650	$19,400	32.2%
FY21	50	$60,250	$79,650	$19,400	32.2%
FY22	32	$38,560	$50,976	$12,416	32.2%
Totals	182	$219,310	$289,926	$70,616	32.2%

- Please be mindful that proposed ordinance change is for new construction only and doesn't not affect remodeling of existing homes; Hogansville's existing permit structure is in place for those types of building permits.
